THE TEST OF THE SKY.

Not to Earth's test—to thine, wide-arching Sky!—
Bright, ruthless sky, in whose thrice-limpid blue
The unseen currents, air and fire and dew,
Do purify themselves continually;
Even to thy test and judgment, all things come;
Sky of a thousand storms,
A million stars—thou heaven bent o'er all,
Limitless, fathomless and inscrutable;
Laws, customs, creeds—the fabrics that men rear,
Unstayed, unglossed, must meet th' accuser here;
Full many a doctrine high in church or state,
Hallowed by usage, fair of outward guise—
Systems whose fragments still beguile the wise
Or bind the sumptuous dwellings of the great—
Laid bare to wind and sun
All crumbling show, worm-canker and undone.
But wisdom shines more clear,
Truth even whiter; naught has love to fear.
Nor unstained faith, from yon broad glances sent
Down the blue gulf and dazzling firmament.
Thy face we seek—we, too, thou searching Sky,
In whose dread vault and glacial-bright abyss
Winged currents bind the unseen world to this;
Whose life renews earth's life perpetually;
Not to men's courts—to thine, we also come!
Still to the desert lone
We steal apart, or mountain waste and high,
And wait the solemn verdict of the Sky.

A Solution of the Servant Difficulty

"I AM going to found an Order of Domestic Servants, and call it the Order of St. Zita," announced the enterprising Mrs. Hartley-Dunne, when I went to call upon her the other day.

"And will it be a success, do you think?" asked I.

"It must be," answered she with confidence. "Good servants are the things above all others that the world is crying out for now, and my order, coming just at the right moment, is quite certain to achieve a great success."

During the winter Mrs. Hartley-Dunne had already organized a course of lectures for soldiers' wives, instituted a Ladies' club in her country town, opened a vegetarian restaurant near Charing Cross, and subscribed half the funds towards a home for summer cats, so she felt entirely justified in speaking with decision about her present venture.

"But why name it Zita?" I demanded, wondering.

"My dear, I don't suppose you've ever heard of St. Zita," she returned; and I confessed my total ignorance with shame.

"Well, never mind," said Mrs. Hartley-Dunne, encouragingly, "between ourselves I don't think anybody does know anything about her, although her life is published by the Truth society for a penny."

"It must have been very clever of them to have written it if they do not know anything at all about her!" marveled I.

"Oh, no! I don't mean that," exclaimed my friend, precipitately; "of course the Truth society always does know everything about everybody."

"Do they, really? How extremely awkward! I shall have to be more careful for the future."

"What I meant was that you and people in our set, as a rule, are all in the dark where the Acta Sanctorum is concerned."

"Put me out of my misery quickly," pleaded I.

"If you care to know, St. Zita was an Italian peasant," Mrs. Hartley-Dunne explained, "born 1218, died 1278, who for nearly 50 years worked in the household of Fatinelli, at Lucca, and is the only domestic servant who has ever been canonised."

"Really! Indeed! Exactly so!" said I. "I don't quite know which is the most appropriate comment to make, but I wish to convey to your mind that I am tremendously impressed by what you tell me."

"And do you want to hear all about my order?"

"I am simply dying of curiosity," I replied.

"To begin with," she began, "a cousin of mine is going to lend me his country house in Hertfordshire for the Novitate house, and there Lady Abbess, and the Choir Zitines (called mothers of the congregation) will reside, and train the lay Zitines for service."

"But how to obtain the Postulants?" asked I.

"I have thought of that; orphans and foundlings can be easily supplied for that purpose by the cardinal."

"Of course they can," said I.

"And the rules are all drawn up."

"Oh! Let me hear the rules."

"1. A Zitine will be taught from the earliest years that she is the happiest and most fortunate of women.

"2. She will take the greatest care of the property of others, while never desiring any property of her own.

"3. She will dress in a simple manner, incapable of attracting the admiration of the opposite sex.

"4. She will only speak when charity or necessity requires her to do so.

"5. She will guard her eyes whilst talking to the milkman and the butcher boy.

"6. She will not clean the sink out with a dinner napkin.

"7. She will not make coffee in a beer-jug, should there already be two other coffee pots in the house.

"8. She will never pour paraffine upon the kitchen fire.

"9. She will never complain to any one except the lady abbess."

"Most comprehensive rules!" said I. "I shall have no hesitation in applying to you for all the domestic servants I may ever require."

"You will have to subscribe to the order, and become an oblate," said Mrs. Hartley-Dunne, gravely. "You know it is just possible that when a lady tells you she has never been able to find a servant to suit her, she herself may be a tiny bit to blame; and, for this reason it has been judged expedient that all masters and mistresses, after having their references thoroughly examined into, shall be divided into two classes—the worthy and unworthy, and only the former shall be admitted as oblates of the order of St. Zita. They will pay a yearly subscription, and be constantly supplied with servants from the home."

"It sounds most charming and delightful," I exclaimed.

"The greatest care will be taken in the placing of Zitines; and should a worthy ever have the misfortune to become an unworthy, its name will at once be taken off the books, and its subscription returned. The lady abbess, however, will be particularly discreet in listening to a Zitine's complaint, and she will frequently admonish a discontented servant that the circumstances objected to may very possibly be for the good of her soul."

"Most wise," quoth I.

"There are rules for the mistresses, too," Mrs. Hartley-Dunne continued. "They must never lay traps for their servants, or fuss about after them whilst they are working; and they will have to hold a chapter of faults every Saturday morning, when the Zitines will, one by one, accuse themselves of any breakages or acts of disobedience that may have occurred during the week. The mistresses will be allowed, if necessary, to administer a gentle reprimand, but they will have no power to inflict penances on those under their care. If it ever should happen that a Zitine turns out to be really unsatisfactory, she will have to be returned immediately to the Novitate house, where suitable penances will be inflicted upon her by the mothers of the congregation, and in this case, as in that of illness, her place will be at once refilled by another sister."

"I am glad to know that somebody is going to give her what for," said I.

Mrs. Hartley-Dunne looked at me disapprovingly, and went on: "During sickness and old age the Zitine will receive every care and attention at the Novitiate house, she will be surrounded by home comforts, waited on by bright young orphans, and allowed to sit unoccupied with her hands clasped a la her patron saint. This is the great feature of the order, which will be constantly alluded to, made the most of, and held out as an inducement to perseverance by the lady abbess and all the mothers of the congregation; and the thought of those folded hands in the future will cheer the young lay sister through many a working day."

"It would," said I.

"The motto of the order is Laborare est Orare, but the Zitine will not be required to study Latin; for all practical purposes a general idea of the meaning of the expression Facta non Verba will be considered sufficient. She will divide the 14 hours of her working day into seven parts, corresponding to the seven canonical hours, and she will be educated to understand that a proper performance of her duties from six a. m. till eight is equivalent to a course of devotional exercises."

"How systematically arranged!" I cried with admiration. "But are you never going to let her have any playtime at all?"

"She will be allowed a little modest recreation during her dinner hour, and again a little while just before she retires to rest; but should bells ring during that recreation she will be trained to answer them with cheerfulness and alacrity."

"Her price will be above rubies, as King Solomon observed."

"My dear, I cannot quite feel that you are entering into the spirit of the order with sufficient seriousness," said its founder, doubtfully.

"Oh, please, yes. Really I am. Do tell me more," I hastened to assure her. Should you think she will remain long in her situations?" asked I.

"Yes, I should say, that, as a rule, the Zitine will always remain in the same place," said Mrs. Hartley-Dunne, thoughtfully, "and mistresses will soon discover that that is one of the great advantages of having a nun for a servant—being already in a state of perfection she can never have any intention of leaving 'to better herself.'"

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy, The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Female Fighters.

Eleonore Prochaska, born March 11, 1785, at Potadam, was the daughter of a sergeant. After being brought up in the military orphanage of that town, she became a cook in some citizen's house. When the great war against Napoleon broke out in 1813 she was led away by enthusiasm to quit her town secretly; by selling her poor belongings she procured male attire and weapons, and enlisted under the name of August Renz in the Lutzow corps. On account of her tall, slender figure her sex was not discovered until she was mortally wounded. This happened in the encounter in the Gohrde forest, Regierungsbezirk Luneburg, Kreis Dannenberg, September 16, 1813. The Prussians were there attempting to storm a hill occupied by the French, she acting as a drummer. In 1863 a monument in memory of her was erected in the churchyard at Dannenberg, and another in 1889 in the old churchyard of Potsdam. When a boy I often saw cheap illustrations representing her, and my mother told me about her.—Notes and Queries.

MANY OF OUR SHEEP GOATS.

Much of the Mutton Sold in Large Cities Is the Meat of Angoras.

Among stockmen it is notorious that a great deal of meat that is sold for prime mutton in St. Louis, Chicago, Louisville and Kansas City is really Angora goat meat—just as good eating and far more profitable to the stockmen by reason of the greater value of the fleece, mohair against wool, says the Kansas City World.

The Angora goat-raising interest is steadily growing throughout the United States. Its headquarters, that is, the headquarters of the American Angora Goat Breeders' association, are right here in Kansas City. W. T. McIntyre is the secretary of this association. Mr. McIntyre says:

"There are 50,000 Angora goats in the country to-day and the business is growing fast. It has all been built up since March 14, 1891, when our association was formed. Then, according to government statistics, there were but 20,000 Angora goats in the United States. And not one registered. Now we have about 30,000 registered.

"Registered goats range in price from $10 to $15 each. Some bucks go from $25 to $500. Plain, unregistered animals bring from $2.50 to $5 a head. It pays to raise any kind, but just now, at any rate from the stud standpoint, it is more profitable to raise registered stock.

"Angora goats do better than sheep anywhere, but are especially better in brush-covered sections. They are far hardier than sheep.

"Our association has 393 members now, in all parts of the United States and Canada and Mexico. We have some in Australia."

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words can not tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola Ia. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals.

Very truly,
MRS. JULIA JOHN.

Look Pleasant, Please.

Photograper C. C. Harlan, of Eaton, O., can do so now, though for years he couldn't, because he suffered untold agony from the worst form of indigestion. All physicians and medicines failed to help him till he tried Electric Bitters, which worked such wonders for him that he declares they are a godsend to sufferers from dyspepsia and stomach troubles. Unrivaled for diseases of the stomach, liver and kidneys, they build up and give new life to the whole system. Try them. Only 50c. Guaranteed and for sale by J. T. Day, Hazel Green, or S. S. Combs & Sons, Campton.

A New Kentucky Line.

Pennsylvania capitalists, among whom is ex-Governor Stone, have begun the survey for a railroad to extend up the valley of Big Brush Creek, in Knox county, for a distance of 10 miles. The survey has been begun at Artemus, two miles north of Barbourville, and work will be pushed rapidly to its completion. The purpose of the road is to open up and develop valuable mineral and oil lands in that section of the state.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland ave., Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress.

Want It for One Year.

J. R. Lyons & Co., Wellington, Ky., last week sent us the report of stock sales at that place, and to it add: "Mr. Cooper, the above is for publication. We also hand you $1.00 in stamps, for which please send us your paper."

EDITORIAL + ERUPTIONS.

A suit entered by the Countess of Buena Vista against Gen. Brooks gives a hint of the enormities from which we delivered the Cubans, Porto Ricans and Filipinos. It appears that away back in 1704, the King of Spain, wanting to do something for some courtier who had the common longing to live by the sweat of other people's brows, gave him the right to collect a certain tax on all meat slaughtered for the City of Havana. For nearly 200 years his descendants have enjoyed this income, for which, of course, they did not make the slightest return. Gen. Brooks abolished the tax, and the Countess has sued him for the income. Of course the General is not lying awake at nights worrying over it. Think of how many other similar hoary iniquities in the Spanish possessions were rudely swept away by American occupation.

West Liberty Dist. Annual Meeting

The annual meeting for West Liberty District will convene with the church at White Oak, Morgan county, on Friday, September 19, and continue over Sunday, the 21st. It was voted at the last annual assembly that all meetings thereafter should be "delegated meetings," and the church where meeting is held would be asked to entertain "the delegates." The delegates to the annual meeting consist of all preachers, church officers, and persons appointed by the churches as delegates. Others may attend but the church will not be expected to entertain them.

We want a "working meeting," and not an "eating meeting."

Suit Against Sheriff Carter.

As far back as July 30th Attorney Clem J. Whittemore, of the office of the State Auditor, had prepared a suit to recover from ex-Sheriff John S. Carter, of Morgan county, the sum of $4,982.04, that is claimed to be due on his settlement for taxes for the year 1901. The United States Fdelity Company, of Baltimore, Md., bondsmen for Carter, was made a party to the suit. The action will be brought in the Franklin Circuit Court.

Superior Stock of Swine.

Squire John D. Rose passed thro' here Monday morning with a pair of his famous O. I. C. shoats, which he had sold to Claude Henry, of the north fork of Licking, in Morgan county, for $40.00 cash. They were about 90 days old and weighed right at 100 pounds each. They are pure white when clean, and Mr. Rose has already demonstrated that they make fat faster than any stock of swine ever introduced in this section.

William Lusk, for many years a citizen of this place, but who has for some ten years past lived at Myrtle Point, Oregon, is here on business connected with some land he owns, and incidentally visiting among his host of friends, to all of whom he appears the self-same "Judge" Lusk, as we were wont to call him in by-gone days. Asked if he read in THE HERALD his rumored death, he said: "Yes, and I just kept mum to see if anybody would say anything good about me." And the rumor not being ratified we refrained from saying anything, lest we excite his vanity or his venom, but had it been true what we'd asaid would a be'n a plenty. So we are even on that score. A few days ago Vochabel Gibbs, of Lane, killed three copperhead snakes. The finder of one of these reptiles ran it under the hearthstone, where he joined two of his comrades in death.

BEN SEWELL, EDITOR. VOLUME I.—NUMBER 13.

EDITORAIL EFFUSIONS.

THE Republicans of the Tenth Congressional District have nominated an unusually strong candidate for Congress in the person of Hon. John G. White, of Winchester. They have played wisely and well the game of politics in the selection of a standard-bearer. Mr. White is a prominent, influential, upright and christian citizen—an active member of the Baptist church—honored, loved and respected by all who know him. He is intensely ambitious, a typical Kentuckian, a model American, in whom the sang-digger, the corn-cultivator, the 'possum and coon hunter have a strong, fearless friend and champion. Earnestness is the characteristic make up and build of the man. He is not an orator in the common acceptation of what an orator is, but he is a good speaker; and when he talks one is impressed that what he says comes from the heart and from the lucid fountains of truth and common sense. He will make his opponent fly around the circle like a fox-hound. And he will catch him in the merry-go-round of the campaign and beat him in the final wind up of the November election. Henry Watterson truly enough says: "the Democratic party is cranky." So it is; but it is more than that. It is shaky and wavering and not worthy the confidence and support of men who have the welfare, prestige and honor of the American republic at heart. The Democratic party has no settled views, no agreed policy with regard to any of the known public questions of the day. The Democratic party wants harmony—not harmony of opinion, but harmony sufficient to land them in office. The voters of the Tenth want no more Coxey armies marching over the country on a hunt for butter and bread, and employment. They want a continuation of the present prosperous times. "The Democratic party is cranky," but the people are not fools to their own interests. White will be elected.

* * *

SHOULD a man of brains lead or be led in the battle of life? Should he think for himself, or let others think for him, and then do as others bid him do? The answer is found in the word "no." Especially a man should be his own judge of what is right and what is wrong in matters political. He should not allow himself to be swerved from his convictions by windy demagogues. It has been the independent thinkers who have thought out the solutions to the questions affecting the weal or woe of our country from time to time. If a fellow wants to be a crank just let him be driven from place to place by the party whip.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Doc Miller and wife, of Lane, were in town to do some trading with our merchants.

Rev. L. M. Brown preached at the Baptist Church here Sunday to a good congregation.

E. Sears, of Parkersburg, W. Va., is registered at the Combs House. Mr. Sears is engaged in real estate, oil and gas.

The Protestant Methodist Church of the Meadow Branch gave a box supper last Saturday evening for the benefit of the church.

A. B. Cox, of Caney, was here Saturday and Sunday, and availed himself of the opportunity to deliver a few of his best sugar-plum speeches.

County Attorney C. C. Fulks attended the Sunday School picnic at Toliver on Sunday, and delivered himself of a fine speech on the "Frailty of Society."

Jim Lu Wiseman has employed G. B. Stamper to bring suit against the Lexington and Eastern Railway Co. for damages in the sum of $40.00 for one horse alleged to have been killed by a train belonging to said company.

Attorney W. B. Duff has handed ye editor a "dollar of the daddies" to be entered as a credit on his subscription to THE HERALD. There are others in arrears who should wake up and do likewise. It takes greenback, grit and grace to run a paper successfully.

County Clerk Tutt reports the following marriage license issued since our last issue: Aug. 14, C. M. Hanks to Florence Tutt, both of Campton; Aug. 15, Wayne Moore to Lou Rilda Collins, both of Stillwater; Aug. 17, Naboth Hatton to Sarah Shackelford, both of Lane.

Married, on the 14th, Cud Hanks, son of Boone Hanks, to Miss Florence Tutt, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Tutt, deceased. By the way this marriage winds up a remarkable record in the matrimonial world in which Cupid has played a swift part. All of the girls (four) of this family have married the past year. Miss Loula to Frank Horton; Miss Bertie to Rolla Bailey; Miss Nannie to Daniel McQuinn and Miss Florence to Cud Hanks.

The following people were charmingly and delightfully entertained al dinner by A. F. Byrd and wife last Sunday: A. C. Byrd and wife, J. J. Chambers and wife, Benj. Sewell and wife, Mrs. G. W. Halsey Mrs. W. L. Byrd, Mrs. John G. Byrd, Fiddler David Athey, J. H. Stamper, Jr., and Miss Tamer Tolson. All feasted lavishly on good things to eat, and were captivated by the exceedingly nice music rendered on the piano and violins by Miss Bessie Byrd, Floyd Byrd and David Athey.

A. F. Byrd had the honor and the pleasure and the opportunity to hear Judge W. M. Beckner deliver a wise, sound and patriotic speech at the Winchester convention last week. Floyd says "the party is bigger than any man." Wonder if he thought so in 1896, when the whole Democratic shooting match was led off from its old moorings by Bryan and his free silver humbug? Bryan didn't think the party bigger than any man when he voted for Weaver for President in 1892, or Cleveland.

Dr. B. D. Cox, R. E. Cundiff, J. C. Hurst and Benj. Sewell constituted the "Big Four" that attended the Republican congressional convention at Winchester last week. They got struck on Winchester and its people. Special mention is due W. P. Hampton, of the Winchester Bank, who treated the boys in a particularly kind and genteel manner. Mr. H. is a mountain man, and that in a measure accounts for his cleverness and sociability. The Winchester Bank is a sound institution, and is largely patronized by mountain people, and he made it a point to show the mountain boys every kindness and courtesy possible. Mr. Hampton came very near raking up kinship with ye editor, but missed it one point. He should take THE HERALD and by so doing will feel nearer and dearer to us.

In Java

Natives do not glaze coffee with a cheap and impure coating. They have too high a regard for health as well as for the naturally delicious flavor of their popular berry. The very American roasters who glaze their package coffees do not dare to touch or glaze their high priced Mochas and Javas. Why?

Lion Coffee is never glazed or adulterated. It is JUST PURE Coffee.

Deeds of a Demon.

Albert Dye on Thursday told "our man about town" of one of the most damnably dastardly deeds ever recorded. He says that some inhuman scoundrel shot two of his cows, inflicting three wounds upon each and destroying the sight of an eye for each. How anything in the image of God—miss-called man—can stoop so low as to shoot a poor dumb brute in revenge for something the owner may have, or may not have done, is beyond the ken of all right thinking mortals. The beast who would do such a thing is more hyena than human, and God will surely task him with a brrak-backing burden to bear for his black deed.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for awhile we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits.

Tilley Is Armed to the Teeth.

All Were Saved.

"For years I suffered such untold misery from Bronchitis," writes J. H. Johnston, of Broughton, Ga., "that often I was unable to work. Then, when everything else failed, I was wholly cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. My wife suffered intensely from Asthma, till it cured her, and all our experience goes to show it is the best Croup medicine in the world." A trial will convince you it's unrivaled for Throat and Lung diseases. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at J. Taylor Day, Hazel Green, and S. S. DISLIKED BY NATURE

Towns That Seem to Be Chosen Marks of the Elements.

Where Rain Falls Heaviest, Snow Lies Thickest and Thunder and Lightning Exhibit the Greatest Violence.

There is more than one town against which Dame Nature seems to harbor a curious spite, as if she would say: "This site is not meant to build upon." Langtoft, a little place of some 600 people in the East Riding of Yorkshire, England, is one of these. Over and over again has the weather all round been fine and clear, yet the valley in which Langtoft stands has been shrouded in heavy clouds and drenched with rain. The snow in winter always seems to lie thickest on the wolds above the town, and to cause floods more or less disastrous as it melts in the spring.

The climax came on a Sunday evening two summers ago, says the Chicago Tribune.

After a hot day a violent thunderstorm broke. Then there appeared in the west an inky cloud, from which hung four long, twisting black columns.

Suddenly, just after six o'clock, a wall of water came roaring down the hillside above the village. When it struck the upper end of the street it was seven feet high. In a twinkling it had demolished a number of houses and torn partitions from others, and swept away everything in its path. What was left was so plastered with mud and earth as to be almost useless.

No one was killed, but the destruction of domestic animals, of houses, property and roads was complete. Gardens and grazing lands were ruined. Even the parish well was utterly choked with mud and dead animals.

Southbourne-on-Sea, four miles on the east of Bournemouth, has far better air than the latter town, and looks as if it ought to be just the site for a health resort. Tens of thousands have been spent in the effort to make it so, yet nature had said no, and man's efforts have proved unavailing.

A handsome pier was built, supported on the shore by immense cement walls. The pier is now only approached by a single plank. Its center supports are gone, and it is the resort only of two or there fishermen. The cement wall looks like a wave-eaten cliff. Further along the shore a neat row of houses was built in a great recess, cut back at vast expense in the cliff. The sea cut in below them, and the owner was forced to raze them and carry the material away.

There is no great city in Europe which nature so evidently wishes to be rid of as St. Petersburg. Built in the first place on a low-lying swamp, which was filled in at a cost of hundreds of lives and hundreds of thousands of pounds, fevers reduced its population and gave it a death rate higher than any other European capital. Failing so to oust its builders, nature used a new weapon. The ice came down in spring out of Lake Ladoga, and, piling against the new wharves and bridges, dammed the Neva and flooded the city. Every spring saw a repetition of these disastrous floods, which, even after they dried away, left the streets mere quagmires. The St. Petersburgers now defeat the flood by setting to work thousands of men at the first spring thaw, who cut and blast the river ice, and leave free passages for the lake ice to sail down stream unhindered.

Yet still the struggle goes on. For some years past it has been apparent that St. Petersburg is becoming a city of toothless people. Dentists ascribe this curious fact to the effluvia from the rotten vegetation deep buried under the new suburbs of the city. So serious is the matter becoming that there is a strong agitation in favor of once more removing the capital of Russia to some other site.

Russia has another town against natural forces are waging a terrible war. This is Schemacha, in the Caucasus. When Schemacha was founded it was for long impossible to get a supply of drinking water. The difficulty was overcome by bringing water from a distance. Next came a series of terrible epidemics—first smallpox, then cholera, and then smallpox again. Yet the city grew, helped to prosperity by the petroleum trade, and began this year with 35,000 people.

In February last the town was humming with industry, when one dull but warm morning came suddenly a terrific crash of thunder. The solid ground began to vibrate. A few seconds later there was a horrible cracking sound, and the whole of the Mohammedan quarter was thrust upwards bubble-like, till its houses were reared high upon a hill. The bubble burst, and instead of a town there lay a formless heap of ruins, from which red flames leaped and crackled toward the gigantic pall of dust which hid the sky.

Within a week Schemacha's survivors determined to rebuild their ruined city. They had hardly reached the decision when once more the ground began to tremble and the night sky grew ruddy with flame. News came that a new volcano had burst out in the mountains nearby. No plainer warning could be given. Extinct volcanoes have often burst out afresh, and with shocking and terrible results, as in the case of the recent disaster at St. Pierre, whose thousands of inhabitants have entirely perished.

Nothing can pay better than to send us $1.00 and figure on our $25,000 proposition. Read it.

Big Sale of Mountain Land.

Six thousand acres of fine coal and timber land in Harlan county, sold by the Special Commissioner of the Jefferson County Court as the property of the Louisville Trust Company, receiver for the North Cumberland Manufacturing Company, was last week bid in by W. L. Bramlett, of Carlisle, Ky., at Harlan Court-House, for $56,160.

The town property adjacent, consisting of 35 acres, more or less, brought $11,000 from the same party. The property brought good prices, indicating that people have faith in the early development of that county.
